

How we prevented a tax liability of £3,000 for a Forever Living Distributor

CASE STUDY

We were able to re-submit the tax returns, eliminate the £3,000 liability and get her a further £1,500 refund.

A Forever Living distributor with a full-time job and a part-time network marketing business had been a PRB client for a number of years. Each year she made a modest loss which enabled us to obtain a tax refund for her. After a few years, she told us that from now on she had decided to do her own tax return and we wished her well.

A couple of years later, the distributor called us in a panic to say that HM Revenue & Customs were pursuing her for £3,000 of tax, despite her circumstances not having changed at all.

Upon investigation it turned out that she had completed the documents incorrectly and generated an artificial tax liability as a result. PRB were able to re-submit the tax returns, eliminate the £3,000 liability and get her a further £1,500 refund.

Our years of experience and expertise in the network marketing industry help clients get the best tax results, relieving clients of the stress and financial risk of doing it themselves.
